20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

Section 492 of the PHS Act states that The Secretary...shall by regulation require appropriate technical and scientific peer review of -- (A) applications; and (B) biomedical and behavioral research and development contracts". This Council is composed of both scientific and public members who provide the second level of peer review; advice on policy development, program implementation and evaluation; and identify research needs and opportunities of the Institute. A total of 1896 primary applications were received by the Institute and were reviewed by the Initial Review Group for the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD). Those applications at the 30th percentile, or better, were reviewed by the Council. Of the total number received, the Council reviewed and recommended for funding 4,106 applications requesting $1,888,396,373. The membership was provided with updates on the Rehabilitation Research at NIH: Trends and Future Directions; New Directions in Microstructure and Functional MRI; Pregsource: Crowdsourcing to Understand Pregnancy; The Council was provided with presentations addressing Innovative Models for Preventing School Readiness Disparities in Pediatric Primary Care; HIV Infection Among Our Youngest: Knowledge, Survival, Resiliency, and Opportunity; Toward Precision Medicine for People with Intellectual Disabilities; Opioids and Public Health; the NICHD Division of Intramural Research's Annual Report; updates from the Division of Extramural Research and the National Institute on Mental Health. The membership is continuing to be updated on current and new research opportunities as part of the vision initiative. The members reviewed and deliberated the following Institute proposed initiatives: 1) Using Archived Data and Specimen Collections to Advance Maternal and Pediatric HIV/AIDS Research; 2) Development of Novel Non-Steroidal Contraceptive Methods; 3) Chemical Screening and Optimaization Facility; 4) Pediatric Critical and Trauma Scientist Development Program (PCCTSDP); 5) Reproductive Medicine Network Clinical Sites and Data Coordinating Center; 6) Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities Research Centers (IDDRCs) 2019; 7) Newborn Screening Translational Research Network (NBSTRN); 8) Neonatal Opioid Withdrawal Longitudinal Study Clinical Centers; 9) Innovative Epidemiologic Approaches for Understanding Long-term Health Outcomes of HIV-exposed Uninfected (HEU) Populations; 10) Pediatric Critical Care Conferences Initiative; 11) Women's Reproductive Health Research (WRHR) Program; 12) Technologies to Advance Precision Medicine Diagnosis and Treatment of Infertility, Reproductive Tract and Gynecologic Disorders Affecting Fertility; 13) Characterization and Quantification of HIV Reservoirs in Children; and 14) Centers for Collaborative Research in Fragile X and FMR1-Associated Conditions. Council concurred with staff recommendations to go forward with the concepts with either minor modifications or as initially proposed.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The National Advisory Child Health and Human Development Council is composed of 18 appointed members with research interests and responsibilities paralleling those of the NICHD. Twelve members are scientists who are outstanding medical or scientific authorities knowledgeable in the fields of obstetrics, gynecology, pediatrics, genetics, perinatology, reproductive biology, developmental biology, physiology, biochemistry, endocrinology, nutrition, psychiatry, child development, demography, pharmacology, and medical rehabilitation, intellectual and developmental disabilities; six members are representatives of the general public with interests in public policy, law, health policy, economics, and management.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

The committee conducted three Council meetings during this reporting period on the following dates: (01/31, 06/08, and 09/13-14). The National Advisory Child Health and Human Development Council provides advice on a continuing basis on the type of scientific research programs that should be supported and on how to carry out the designated mission and responsibilities of the Institute. It also provides gynecology ongoing review of the relevance and effectiveness of the existing programs.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The National Advisory Child Health and Human Development Council is composed of both scientific and public members who provide the second level of review for research grant applications; advise on policy development, program implementation and evaluation; and identify research needs and opportunities of the Institute. The quality, scope, and balance of advice from this Council cannot be obtained from NIH staff or from other established sources because the membership of the Council is constituted to meet the specific requirements of the mandated mission of the Council and of the Institute.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

The meetings of the National Advisory Child Health and Human Development Council were closed to the public for the review of grant applications. Sections 552b(c)(4) and 552b(c)(6) of the Government in the Sunshine Act permit the closing of meetings where discussions could reveal confidential trade secrets or commercial property such as patentable materials and personal information, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy.

21. Remarks

Committee Function: Other - National Scientific and Advisory. Reports: This committee did not produce any public reports during this reporting period. Members: Shriver's end term has been extended to 11/30/19. Brinnger, Bonniger, Gordon, Tabin and Thomas were inadvertently omitted from last year's report.

Narrative Description

The goal of NIH research is to acquire new knowledge to help prevent, detect, diagnose, and treat disease and disability, from the rarest genetic disorder to the common cold. The NIH mission is to uncover new knowledge that will lead to better health for everyone. NIH works toward that mission by: conducting research in its own laboratories; supporting the research of non-Federal scientist in universities, medical schools, hospitals, and research institutions throughout the country and abroad; assisting the training of research investigators and fostering communication of medical and health sciences information. Section 492 of the Public Health Service Act states that "The Secretary...shall by regulation require appropriate technical and scientific peer review of (A) applications...; and (B) biomedical and behavioral research and development contracts..." The National Child Health and Human Development Council provides second level peer review; makes recommendations for support of grants, contracts, and cooperative agreements; advises on policy development, program implementation and evaluation; and identifies research needs of the NICHD.

Action Comments

An action of "approved" or "recommended" for grants receiving review by this council does not infer that the grant will be or has been funded. Research grant applications submitted to NIH must go through a two-step review process that includes the initial peer review for scientific and technical merit and a second step of review and approved be a National Advisory Council that includes program relevance. In addition, prior to an award or funding being made, NIH staff must conduct an administrative review for a number of other considerations. These include alignment with NIH's funding principles, review of the project budget, assessment of the applicant's management systems, determination of applicant's eligibility, and compliance with public policy requirements. After all the steps have been completed, NIH officials make funding decisions on individual grant applications.

Is the Committee engaged in the review of applications for grants?

Yes
